

Marion Molteno Festival Appearances

Wells Literary Festival

An entrancing talk - very different, very engaging and very much appreciated by all present. It led to much discussion afterwards. The bookstall sold out!

Peter Crossley

Kings Lynn Literary Festival

A very popular reader and speaker with our audiences.

Joan Evans

Saffron Walden Literary Festival

An inspirational creative writing workshop leader. She understands precisely how she herself writes and can communicate this clearly, dispelling all daunting mystery about the process. In her workshops she gives participants the confidence to tell their own stories with confidence.

Jo Burch

Commonwealth Writers' Prize events, London

A great evening - really interesting, enjoyable and inspiring. A comment from one of the audience - 'I thought last night was fabulous. What an inspirational person Marion is.'

Katrina Blench, Mayfair Library

Kingston Readers Festival

A very moving talk.

Sandy Williams

Swindon Literary Festival

She generated that feel-good factor where authors interact with readers.

Matt Holland

Refugee week, Islington

Marion's talk was very topical - sharing her own experience and raising some of the problems that refugees and asylum seekers face when they come to a new country. The 200+ people present were very happy with it.

Kassa Tsegaye

Conference on Third World Women, Cheshire

Marion embraced the theme of the conference wonderfully and I for one have learnt a great deal. She has led such an interesting life (although traumatic at times) and the insight she gave into the lives of others was thought provoking.

Jill Lucas

Conference on Commonwealth literature, Paris

University of Marne le Vallee

I truly admire her ability to connect with listeners and engage them in stories of her own adventures, which then inspire us to want to read her novels.

Anne de Wint

Library tours

in Cornwall, Devon, Cheshire, London

Everyone really enjoyed the evening. They loved the reading and hearing about her writing. They were really impressed by her friendliness and the ease with which she spoke to the group. Most people are used to being talked at by an author and not having a conversation.
Susannah Hill, Neston Library, Cheshire

Excellent! I have had so much positive feedback.

Sucheta Samant, Balham Library, London
